

Year: 2009

Location: United States

Program: Museum

Broad Art Foundation Museum

The design for the Broad Art Foundation Museum in Beverley Hills was designed with LA in mind. The building provides views of its art collection to motorists as they drive by along Santa Monica Boulevard. The Building's multi-layered facade and large exhibition spaces allows for maximum flexibility. Perforated metal shutters automatically swing open and close based on incoming natural light. Additionally, glass shutters between the museum and the outdoor garden open to create physical connections with the exterior.