

Year: 2005

Location: France

Program: Historical Museum

Centre d'Interpretation du Canal de Bourgogne - Institute

Conceptually parallel to the “Furniture House 1”, this gallery space contains a series of exhibition units that double as structure. Each unit is made of readily available perforated steel-shelf angles, which are used throughout the building for a wide range of functions such as display units, storage cabinets, and wall partitions. Furthermore, these steel angles carry low current for clip lighting fixtures.