

Year: 2004

Location: Japan

Program: Product Design

Paper partition system 1

After the Niigata earthquake many families took refuge in gymnasiums, where they had to share space with strangers for the first time. To partly alleviate this lack of privacy, an indoor cabin was assembled out of square paper tubes. Despite its original intentions, the Paper House was ultimately used as a play pen for children and as a temporary clinic for the elderly.