Vasarely Pavilion

Year: 2006
Location: France
Program: Exhibition Design / Installation

Status: Completed
Type: Temporary
Structure: Paper Tube Structure

This temporary architecture was built as an homage to the artist, Paul Cézanne, in commemoration of the Cézanne in Provence festival in 2006 on a site at the Vasarely Foundation with a panoramic view of Mont Sainte-Victoire. 8m in height and 16m in diameter at the crown, this umbrella form was created from a self-supporting paper tube structure. From beneath the membrane covered canopy and amongst the trees and nature, one can enjoy the great views of Mont Sainte-Victoire.
