Paper Log House for Marigha, Morocco

This is a relocation project involving a paper log house prototype built with students in Marrakech in 2024. It was moved to a small mountain village called Marigha, which was heavily affected by the 2024 earthquake, to serve as an information center for disaster recovery.

The house was donated by the Voluntary Architects' Network (VAN) to a local NGO leading the reconstruction efforts. The construction work was carried out collaboratively by VAN members, student volunteers, and the local architects Fayçal Tiaïba of Laberinto Studio and Khalil Morad El Ghilali of Atelier Be.
