

Church in Roppongi

Year: 2002
Location: Japan
Program: Place of Worship

Status: Unbuilt
Type: New-built
Structure: Timber Structure

The design of this Lutheran church strived to remain humble in response to the religious doctrine as well as the changing redevelopments of its surroundings. All utility spaces were placed underground, forming a base for the actual church, which is characterized by its triangular shape and a plan that narrows towards the altar.
