

Year: 2019

Location: Japan

Program: Stadium

Wooden Rugby "Ball" Park

This proposal was imagined as an architectural project, and an indoor stadium was designed, in the form of a rugby ball. There are no roofed rugby stadiums in the world; players play in the rain, they get muddy, and muddy conditions are bad for the grass. In response, a timber structure which uses the geometric form to unite the shape of the ball with a more rational structural design.